Character Sketch of Shylock

The Jew, Shylock lived in Venice. He was a professional usurer. He had amassed an immense fortune by lending money to Christians merchants at high interest rates. As a hard – hearted man, he demanded that the money he lent should be paid so severely that all good men disliked him very much. Antonio also had his hard hearts to reproach him. In the entire city of Venice, Shylock was accused of being selfish.

With Antonio, Shylock had tremendous enmity. He cooked revenge against him, for which he always wanted the chance. This opportunity came when Antonio appealed to him to have three thousand ducats needed. Shylock made Antonio sign a bond that he would have to forfeit a pound of flesh if he failed to repay the money on a certain day. Luck went the way of Shylock. The money was not repaid by Antonio. Shylock brought the case to the duke of Venice, who claimed the penalty

The enemies met in court next. In order to nourish his greed, Shylock sharpened his knife to Antonio's dismay. He looked forward to seeing Antonio die at his feet, but that couldn't happen. The counselor turned the table against Shylock by saying that Shylock could cut from Antonio's breast his pound of flesh, but he must not shed even a single drop of Antonio's blood. This sabotaged Shylock's conspiracy, because it was impossible for him to cut the flesh and shed some blood.
